MEDIA STATEMENT

24 February 2026

Deputy Minister Dr Nomusa Dube-Ncube will today the 24th of February give a keynote address at the Regenesys School of Health Sciences Launch in Sandton Johannesburg.

Deputy Minister Nomusa Dube-Ncube will this evening give a keynote address the launch of the Regenesys School of Health Sciences Launch.

The School of Health Sciences aims to integrate AI and innovation into healthcare education, preparing leaders to address system challenges. The initiative is designed to tackle health challenges by training professionals in modern, technology-focused healthcare, complementing existing nursing and curative practices.

It is expected that the Deputy Minister will speak on the vision of the department which includes but not limited to improved access, blended learning and futuristic and skills-based education.

Moreover, Dr Dube-Ncube will highlight how the department is pushing for improved relationships and finding linkages with industry. It is expected that present at the launch will be many industry experts, presenting an opportunity for the DM to further engage.

Deputy Minister Dube-Ncube will also emphasise and recognise the important work done by institutions while also elaborating further on public and private partnership within the PSET sector.
